Comment on this.Dopamine D2 receptor agonists: therapeutic potential in Alzheimer's disease. Dopamine exerts a modulating influence on behavioural processes through interactions with dopamine D1 and D2 receptors. A role for dopamine D2 receptors in the pathogenesis of Alzheimer's disease (AD) has been proposed based on receptor binding and human gene association studies, and on the efficacy of neuroleptics and antipsychotic drugs in this disorder. Promising results obtained with D2 receptor agonists in experimental models of AD, and in clinical trials in mild-moderate AD have stimulated the therapeutic development of selective D2 receptor agonists. The following review focuses on D2 receptor agonists acting at the presynaptic dopaminergic autoreceptors, and dopamine D2/D3 receptor agonists, and on animal models of AD with selective D2 receptor agonists; emphasis is placed on the clinical efficacy of antipsychotic drugs in AD, and on the results of published or unpublished ongoing clinical trials of non-antipsychotic, D2 receptor agonists. The opportunity for clarifying the role of D2 receptors in the pathogenesis of AD is reviewed.Q: How to apply numpy.tensordot to Numpy array and string? What if I want to apply a numpy.tensordot to the values in an array and a string? For example, I want to find the dot product of the following two arrays: a = np.array([[0, 1, 2

A: It is because you are loading the database in the code itself. Use the function LoadDatabase() to load your database file and then call functions in it. This should work: var db = new MySqlConnection(connectionString); db.Open(); function load() { var dbase = LoadDatabase(@"C:\myDatabase.sdb"); MySqlCommand cmd = new MySqlCommand("SELECT * FROM anything", db); MySqlDataReader dr = cmd.ExecuteReader(); while(dr.Read()) { Console.WriteLine(dr.GetString(0) + " " + dr.GetString(1) + " " + dr.GetString(2)); } } Monday, July 15, 2009 John Galt, or Slavery is Natural In the free market economics of Ayn Rand, men are noble, altruistic and selfishly greedy; Women are selfish, unfeeling and sterile. The seminal, fundamental character flaws of men and women, as espoused by this odd and late Roman Catholic, free market contrarian, John Galt, is that men are motivated by self-love, self-interest and egoism; women by vanity, self-importance and a sense of identity. Their "choice" is driven by a lack of self-worth, because they have no self-respect. Feminism is the political ideology of self-respect for women. The key to understanding the world of Capitalism is this self-respect, and the need for self-respect of women, which is one of the primary motivations of women to support the political agenda of feminism. Without women buying sex and carrying out "female" chores as normal, the political agenda, and the whole feminist economic strategy, would collapse. The "choice" of women to be stupid and thus vote for a party that portrays them as stupid is the "choice" of any "free" market capitalist; the equivalent of John Galt's "choice" to be insignificant and therefore destroy the "choice" of women to either be happy, self-respecting or productive. The all-important self-respect of men, which motivates them to live and provide for themselves, is denied to women. Women have only one choice in this world; subservience e79caf774b
